FROM THE FRENCH OF MERY, BY MRS. ST. SIMON. At the mansion of the Comtesse de Lipona, at Florence, as soon as the piano ceased to accompany the airs of Bellini, that is to say, generally about midnight, the intimate friends of the family would draw together in a circle, and relate tales and adventures until morning.

The Comtesse frequently related to us charming narratives, with that half French, half Italian grace. which never forsook her. The illustrious dame had witnessed so many dramas, so many festivals, so ma-Chemiculs.—Syr. of Iodide of Iron; Iodide of Iron; Iodide of Lead; Iodide of Mercury; Iodide of Potassa; Chloroform; Sw. Spts. Nitre; Aq. Ammonia; Sulph. Æther; Hoffman's Anodyne; Sulph. and Act. Morphine; Act. Plumbi; Sulph.

One night the circle was closely grouped about her arm-chair; the noble dame had promised us something new, and her voice faltered with emotion; her calm and beautiful face was evidently agitated by some sad remembrance. Our silence seemed to question her respectability, and she began : "At the time when Italy was French, a sedition broke out in one of the regiments, that was in garrison at Leghorn. It was a much more serious affair than a common mutiny. The Emperor appeared extremely irritated when he heard the news; he resolved to make a severe example, and Joachim was charged with the duty of punishing the refractory regiment. The Emperor's orders were precise and terrible; he wished for no court martials, but for the immediate execution of the culprits. "Joachim arrived at Leghorn, assembled the regi ment upon the public square, and informed the soldiers that he had received an order from the Emperor to punish them, and that he intended to do so. The vehemence of his words, his impetuous and menacing The soldiers cast themselves at his feet; they were humble and suppliant. Joachim was moved; he was always kind-hearted, but he had received his orders; he repressed his emotion, and with anger burning in his face, and in a voice of thunder, he declared his purpose to decimate the regiment. "The consternation of the troops was great, as you can imagine. The regiment, confined in the barracks. sent several deputations to Murat to implore his clemency. Officers and soldiers swore to confront death, in the first battle, beneath the eyes of the Emperor. Murat was for a long while inflexible, in Cherry Pectoral; Swayne's Syrup Wild Cherry; Balsam appearance at least; at last he seemed touched by their submission. But the fault was so great, his orders so peremptory, that he demanded that three soldiers chosen from among the most mutinous, should pay with their lives for the crime of the regiment The three victims were soon designated; they were put in irons, and their execution announced for the following day. The regiment still remained confined "In the middle of the night Joachim directed the three soldies to be brought before him; a sergeant, his presence. "'You will be shot to-morrow!' said Murat. The soldiers burst into tears. 'Prepare for death, and fall like brave men: it is the only way to wipe out all duty of transmitting your last farewells, your last regrets, to your fothers and mothers. Your families did not merit children such as you. Have you thought of your mothers? Speak!' Sobs stifled delphia.-100 ozs. Sulph Quinine P. & W.; 50 ozs. Sulph their voices. 'Those poor women would have been proud and even happy if you had fallen in battle with the Austrian; but to die thus, unfortunate men! Go! I will send you a priest to afford you the last succor of religion. Think upon France and your God : from this moment you belong no more to ald.

"The soldiers cast themselves at Joachim's feet, not to ask for mercy, but for his pardon, before death -As they were leaving the apartment. Joachim recalled them. 'Listen!' he said: 'if I should grant you your lives, would you live henceforth like honest men ?

"'No, we wish to die," replied one of the sol diers: 'we have deserved death; let them shoot us it is just." "But if I do not wish to have you shot! cried Joachim. 'Wherefore would you die, when I would have you live ? I have never given the word to fire. except at the enemy, and cannot bear to give it against those who are my brothers, who are Frenchmen, although guilty." "And Joachim wept like a woman-he, the bravest of men! Was he not, Messieurs ?"

After a pause she continued her narrative. "Listen to me! said Joachim, in a milder tone You are great culprits, but I am glad to find that Many proofs are here given, and we solicit an inquiry from | you have energy of character; you will second my all the world; above all, by your regiment. Here you will find a change of clothing wherewith to disguise yourselves as sailors, and a thousand francs will be counted out to each of you; you will remain concealed for a few days in an inn, which will be pointed out to you; in two or three days an American vessel will sail for New Orleans; there you will go to pass your days, and live like honest

All passed as Joachim had arranged it. A severe example was given to the regiment: but there was no blood spilled, and the Emperor, happily deceived. thanked Murat for having sacrificed but three lives to the demands of discipline. The Emperor was ring with it my reverend friend, Mr. Truman, of Sumpter never informed of the generous stratagem to which my husband resorted in this affair; it was for a long time a secret between myself and a few of our faithful friends, who have never betrayed it. There is now no indiscretion in divulging it, and I divulge it

After this narrative, Murat's widow, too deeply moved to prolong the conversation, retired to her

This reply was uttered with some hesitation, she then added with some confidence: "He has dwelt a long while in this country, and. God be praised! he does not repent it. This farm belongs to him. We live comfortably, and respectably, and have no cause to complain of our fortune." At this moment the master of the house entered the apartment. "This gentleman," said the mother, " has done us the henor to repose, for a while, beneath our roof, until the storm has passed over; he is a fellow-countryman; he is a Frenchman." The proprietor of the farm made a military salutation, and stammered out a few words of civility. The face of the stranger produced a singular impression upon him. and he was so agitated that he could not reply to his questions. At last he ventured, with difficulty to address him.

"Monsieur." he said, "you will find my request indiscreet perhaps, but I am constrained to inquire your name. Excuse me-your face-." "My friend," replied the hunter. "this is the only estion I cannot answer. It would be easy for me to deceive you, by giving you a false name, but I prefer to be silent. A man who bears my name knows not how to lie. Now, that I have refused to tell you my name, I do not venture to demand yours." The master of the house did not reply. "It seems that you, also, wish to keep your name secret," added the hunter.

A Soldier's Privileges. It is well known that "Old Hickory" was equally popular in the army and among the people at large. - No man ever lived in this country about whom so many characteristic anecdotes have been related, by those who were among his personal friends. Below we give two of these, which we do not remember to have seen in print before: Several years ago, an officer who was one of the most distinguished of his grade in the service of the United States, on his way home from a dinner party on a certain occasion, was attacked so violently with vertigo that he became impressed with the idea that the ground was rising up against him, and that the fireplugs were after him in hot haste. Under thee circumstances he determined to conceal himself in a friend-And we wept also around the arm-chair of the ly gutter, and wait until his enemies had disappeared. In this condition he was found, and, of course, one of the numerous troops of office-hunters was found ready to communicate to Gen. Jackson, then President of the United States, the fact that the gallant defender of Fort - had been found drunk on the street The old man stood for a moment reflecting, then turning to his informant, said-" Very bad conduct, sir, in the Colonel. But by the Eternal! he has done fighting morrow, near nightfall, you will be lead out of the enough never to draw another sober breath in his life r Ever afterwards, it was the recognized right of the veteran to get drunk as often as he pleased, provided he kept himself out of sight. About the same period, the late Major Gibbon was Collector of the port of a southern city, (Richmond) to which office he had been appointed by the elder Adams. Of course the Major was a Federalist, and one of Gen. Jackson's political opponents. During the struggle of the American Colonies for independence, Major G had distinguished himself on several occasions. He had commanded a forlorn hope under Mad Anthony at Stony Point. After the inauguration of Jackson as President, the Major, who was as bitter a politician as he had been a gallant soldier, in an excited discussion about politics, declared that "Old Hickmen-do you hear? The speech was promptly reported to the President, by one of his riends, who supposed a vacancy would be certain.-"Well, what of it?" was Jackson's reply. " The man and repeated, again and again, that they would do who commanded a forlorn hope of Anthony Wayne, has a full right to curse anybody he pleases ."

Original Letter of Daniel Boone. We are indebted to the Rev. J. N. Norton, of this city, for the privilege of examining an original autograph letter from Daniel Boone to Governor Shelby, which Mr. N. obtained from a triend at Panville. We subjoin a copy of it, spelled, capitalized, and punctuated according to the original, and doubt not that our readers will regard it, with us, as an interesting relic of the early days of the State in which it was written. The hand writing is very good, showing ease and even grace in handling the pen. The spelling is quite defective; but that is a small matter in regard to one who was the pioneer in winning the rich domain of Kentucky from savage hands.
